Executive summary

Ireland Vinayaka Temple Limited is a registered charity organisation (CHY16032) established in 2004, primarily focusing on serving the Hindu community in Ireland comprising individuals from India, Sri Lanka, Malaysia, Mauritius, South Africa, UK, USA and other parts of Europe living in Ireland.

IVT operations is primarily to run a regular Hindu temple open daily offering prayer services. Other activities include offering Hindu Priest services to the individual family events, increasing awareness of Hindu culture in Ireland through cultural events, facilitating visits to the Hindu temple by local schools, promoting Indian music & dance, meditation and other community activities. The organisation has grown rapidly and is approaching its 12th year since inception and has witnessed an ever increasing demand and support from the local Hindu community to increase the frequency of devotional and cultural activities.

Currently the temple operations are conducted in rented premises at Ballyroan Community Centre(BCYC), Rathfarnham that is under South Dublin County Council. The congregation size varies between 80 – 100 people on a weekly basis and on important occasions as many as 300 – 400 devotees per day visit the temple.

IVT commenced its daily operations on September 1st,2011. This was achieved through the appointment of the first resident Hindu priest in Ireland Mr. Muthukumarasamy Renganathan, originally hailing from Tamilnadu, Southern India. He was given permission to enter state under visa category 'Minister of Religion' by Department of Justice & Equality. We have successfully completed four years of temple daily operations as on September 1st,2015.

In the four years, our priest apart from presiding over the daily temple in Ballyroan Community Centre premises has also conducted community prayer meetings in various parts of Dublin as well as in Galway, Cork & Limerick. He has also conducted Hindu ceremonial prayers in a number of member's residences. His service has helped IVT make progress towards its objectives and tremendously benefitted the Hindu community in Ireland.

IVT Profile

Vision

Our Devotees

IVT's devotees are residing in Dublin and other counties in Ireland including Northern Ireland. The majority of the support comes from devotees predominantly resides in and around Dublin. A number of new devotees registrations and regular support increased by approximately 30% in the past one year and demands for priest services are increasing regularly. Registered devotees will receive regular updates on IVT activities through email campaigns, SMS and Website. Moreover, devotees regularly make contact with the priest and through the temple mobile for requesting special private pooja and also making reservations for sponsoring in the temple pooja.

Devotees send their feedback or requests for any devotional services to be performed at their place or at temple through IVT email id : feedback@ivt.ie. Such requests are also received via temple contact phone and also by personal visit to the temple.

Revenue Generation and tools used:

Salesforce.com: All email campaigns, surveys, member updates, new member registrations are done through Salesforce.com. Salesforce.com also offered us to use internal domain secured website for publishing the content on IVT new devotional products, marketing campaigns, event registrations, generate email templates to suit our operating model with inbuilt templates. IVT use the functionalities provides by salesforce.com required for running its operations.

IVT website www.ivt.ie is currently being maintained and administered by volunteers and executive committee members. The content on regular events, weekly prayers, special prayers, cultural events, updates on IVT roadmap is published on website regularly. IVT receive emails from devotees requesting for new devotee enrolments and enquiries for arranging priest for private pooja and other special pooja requests from IVT. Devotees besides making standing order payments through bank can also make regular online payments through paypal towards sponsoring some of IVTs devotional products online. In addition to this, IVT organises community special prayers / pooja in Limerick and Galway. As devotees in this region have grown over the past number of years and demand for priest services from IVT has grown significantly.

IVT has previously successfully conducted cultural event such as 'LAYA'. Moreover, IVT conducted cultural event in Ballyroan Community Hall to promote Hindu culture to local community which was very well received by the local community.

IVTs cultural events also promoted using Salesforce.com email campaigns, Surveys, website updates, newspaper advertisements, communication through forums, radio announcements etc.,

IVT has received support from local multimedia companies such as LeCool for marketing and campaigning our devotional/cultural events. The communication through this channel has certainly brought awareness about IVT activities among various communities in Ireland.

Doras in Limerick – a non profit organisation supporting all ethnic minority organisations in Limerick and other counties has offered us to support in campaigning our activities through their communication channels/media.

In an effort to achieve the goals IVT has set in our roadmap i.e seek support from county councils, business communities and politicians, IVT has made some progress in the last 4 years in this area.

We were able to make a good relationship with property and marketing divisions of South Dublin County Council, Fingal County Council. Some of the local businessmen are kind enough to support us in IVT's endeavours for achieving its goals.

Operational Plan

Daily operational Activities:

Ireland has, for long, shown a strong commitment to promote equality, racial harmony and promotion of the cultural interests of its ethnic minorities. The Government and local bodies have sought to encourage and support the work of voluntary organisations that promote the social and cultural integration of its entire people. The objectives and activities of IVT fully reflect these policy ideals and are primarily designed to their total implementation. This organisation currently makes every effort to meet all the requirements of its followers including such major services as the conduct of traditional Hindu weddings, music, language classes, dance, yoga, private poojas and special poojas on major Hindu festivals. This organisation conducts these activities throughout Ireland especially in Dublin, Cork, Limerick and Galway as density of Hindu community is spread across more in these counties. Majority of these activities have to be performed by a fully qualified Hindu priest well versed in Sanskrit and qualified to perform rituals in a temple. Our resident priest Mr. Muthukumarasamy Renganathan performs rituals such as bathing the Murtis (the statues of the Gods/Goddesses), performing pooja/prayer, a ritualistic offering of various items to the Gods.

Over the years, IVT's feedback has been one of tremendous support to its objectives and there has been a consistent demand to increase the level of service from the organisation. At present all its prayer meetings and socio-religious functions are held daily to serve the needs of growing population of Hindus in Ireland, hailing from countries as diverse as India, Sri Lanka, Malaysia, Mauritius, Singapore, Nepal, UK, USA, South Africa and Ireland among others. Although precise figures are not currently available, it is believed that on a very conservative estimate, between fifteen to twenty thousand Hindus are resident in the country at present.

Management and organisation

IVT has a two tier organization for its operations.

- 1) Board of Trustees and Directors
- 2) Executive Committee

Board of Directors:

The Principle role of a director is governed by the Articles of association and their responsibility is mainly to foresee the operations of IVT and maintain the legal requirements and financial matters. The Board meets once in a year to conduct the business of Directors meeting and the Annual General Body meeting. Directors are elected to the board during these meetings. Secretary and Treasurer are also appointed during these meetings for the next financial year. Other than above, if any emergency meetings are required, all the directors will be requested to attend the meeting. Board has nominated executive committee members for day to day operations and the Board of directors generally do not intervene in the executive committee decisions unless it is essential. The Company Secretary usually conducts the business and is responsible for all company records and maintaining the minutes. The entire book keeping is done by the treasurer and financial details are audited and maintained and audited by external auditor under his supervision. All the directors work on a voluntary basis and do not receive any remuneration.
